

Joan Mather

Joan is a forward-thinking, outcomes focused Leadership Development strategist, facilitator and coach. She leverages her extensive experience across multiple business sectors to achieve positive outcomes for Clients, either through 1:1 executive coaching or leadership team programmes.

Her passion is working alongside leaders, helping them realise their full potential and impact both personally and across their team(s) and organisations.

As a coach, Joan's approach balances challenge and support, helping leaders discover greater clarity of purpose, goals and the best path to achievement. Previous individual and group coaching initiatives have delivered a range of outcomes:

- Clarity on key strengths, challenges and focussed personal development plan;
- Successful transitioning roles, teams and organisations;
- Increased team engagement and performance;
- Positively influencing through change;
- Thinking critically in tricky leadership situations.

"If your actions inspire others to dream more, learn more, do more and become more, you are a leader".
– John Quincy Adams
